Prem S. Menghwar

Postdoctoral Research Associate @ University of Virginia | PhD in Business Administration
Charlottesville, Virginia, United States

Summary

As a Postdoctoral Research Associate at the Darden School of Business, University of Virginia. I am conducting research on the dynamics of Stakeholder Theory in developing countries. In my research, I employ qualitative methodologies such as the analysis of case studies and the grounded theory approach. I have published a paper on "Creating Shared Value" in the International Journal of Management Reviews, which is Wiley's top-cited and top downloaded of the year 2021-2022. I have also won the best Ph.D. Student paper award at the World Open Innovation Conference 2019. I hold a Ph.D. in Management from Luiss Guido Carli University, during which I was a visiting Ph.D. researcher at Boston College. I also earned a master's degree in Business Management from La Sapienza University in Rome and completed an Erasmus program at Södertörn University in Stockholm. I am passionate about advancing scholarship and practice in organizational purpose and Stakeholder Theory.
